'Your Educational Goal Is Our Mission'

RTG and Associates, LLC, in partnership with Fort Hays State University, is pleased to offer professional development, undergraduate/graduate degrees in Education, and continuing education credits to teachers, veterans, active duty military, and spouses of these instructors currently teaching or desiring to teach in America's schools. Seeking more information, click on the FHSU Adult Studies link up above, or this icon:

★ Contact Me Of special note, these JROTC Directorate linked instructor credits qualify for specified state licensure requirements in North Carolina, Virginia, Missouri, and Kentucky. All courses/programs are 100% on-line and appropriately (regional accreditation) accredited for all 50 states and American Territories.

ADDITIONALLY:

We have renewed our relationship with The University of Colorado, Colorado Springs, for college credit recognition of the American Legion Boys State and American Legion Auxiliary Girls State programs in all 49 states participating.

A simultaneous course is also available for nationally recognized Youth Leadership Programs (such as JROTC, Youth Leader Program, and many others empowering youth leadership development) in all 50 States and American Territories.

Please click on either link provided up above, on this web page. The three-credit course, PSC 1510 – Leadership for the Next Generation: Citizenship and Community Service, is available for all current and past participants of these special activities.

DOD JROTC Certification

QUESTIONS, CALL 1-303.840.3063.

1. Five DOD DL Courses (Contemporary American Education, Secondary Methods, Learning and the Brain, Educational Psychology, and Classroom Management) are available through this site for all Non-Army JROTC Instructors, plus for all DOD dependents and other designated public and private school teachers approved by RTG & Associates. There is never a charge/cost to any student/participant for this service. Completion Certificates are automatically forwarded to your Service's Directorate for printing and insertion into your official files. Only successful efforts are maintained and forwarded. You will also receive the Certificate for your personal files you can print or store electronically. You must have a minimum exam score of 70% to pass a subject and meet DOD standards.

A. Click on the two principle support links below (para 3 & 4) in order to earn your NO COST Directorate Completion Certificates for these five DOD DL courses.

B. Course content is internal to the site. Subject matter pedagogy and tutorials fully support participant's learning experience and are 100% online. Directorate supplied textbooks are no longer required, but can be used as references where desired.

2. For JROTC instructors and all others enrolled in a FHSU academic program, do not forget to review the syllabus for each course at the level desired, (AGS or BGS) undergraduate or (MLS or MSE) graduate. If university credit/degree work is a personal objective, there are course writing requirements and tuition associated with that effort in addition to the Certificate. Your Completion Certificate is Product One for each academic subject.

3. To earn your (DOD DL Course) Certificate of Completion, please click here first: FIVE DOD DL Courses – How to get started (hyperlink pending).

4. To initiate the certificate completion process click here: FIVE DOD DL Courses – Registration

5. Currently contracted Army JROTC Instructors must use their Army Directorate's designated website to complete their four unique Pearson DL modules. University academic credit for their Pearson DL modules remains a viable option with this program, as it has for the past decade at Fort Hays State University. When seeking university academic credit and Product One verification for three of these five DOD DL courses (Contemporary American Education, Learning and the Brain, or Secondary Methods), Army Instructors are welcome to utilize this site to support those needs at no charge. A copy of their successful Certificate will automatically be forwarded to their Directorate Instructor Management POC as a courtesy, as well as to the individual. The Five DOD DL Course Certificates will not count for any Army Directorate requirements, only towards degree and academic course activity. You may also use your Army Certificate/Pearson Transcript as Product One of your University courses where appropriate. For additional information call your RTG Army Mentor for this effort, Mr. Jim Gomez: 1-210-552-0759.

6. Finally, if you have any questions please complete this ★ Contact Me link.

New instructors in Kentucky, Missouri, North Carolina, and Virginia have special state licensure needs/requirements these (DOD DL) academic topics are especially aligned with. That coursework is pre-approved by their state licensure agencies with FHSU. Information about those state unique needs are available by clicking on the CONTACT ME link and requesting it in the comments block.

CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN EDUCATION/Dynamic Teaching

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course is designed to prepare participants on how to improve student achievement by using research based instructional strategies, carry out student centered learning, and apply learning profiles preferences in differentiating instruction. The coursework is based upon the writings of Marzano, Pickering, and Pollock in their 2001 text titled: Classroom Instruction that Works. The language of research-based instruction was later modified to evidence-based instruction. Some key concepts that are to be addressed in this effort are: meta-analysis, effect size, standard deviation, and percentile gain. The principle author, Robert Marzano, was a senior research fellow with MCREL, and they were, and still are, working on some extensive research in education. This book has become a foundational work. Marzano and others have since published many books that are what this instructor would call "spin offs" or updates. However, the basis for this text remains today what it was then, an inspiration to more than a million teachers to refine their approach to teaching by asking and answering these questions: What works in education? How do we know? How can educational research find its way into the classroom? How can we apply it to help individual students? Please note, the first chapter is a foundation for subsequent chapters because the research related to each of the nine instructional strategies will be used as an introduction to each strategy.

COURSE OBJECTIVES: Students will . . .

Recognize and state the nine essential instructional strategies as presented by Marzano et. al. (2001)

1. Illustrate the application of these strategies in the classroom for teaching students
2. Explain the concept of size effect as it relates to research specifically as described in Marzano et. al. (2001)
 - Explore learning styles
 - Plan building a learning community

TEXTS, READINGS, INSTRUCTIONAL RESOURCES:

Optional Text: Classroom Instruction that Works, Marzano, R.J., Pickering, D.J., Pollock, J.E., 2001, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

Course Structure

- Series of 16 lessons
- Final Exam over entire course (culminating activity)

Instructional Purpose: Identifying the course structure provides the big picture of the course and sets expectation for the learner. This is the beginning to set the stage for engagement for the learner. Course takers will find that they are addressed as "learners" rather than as "students" because the goal of the course is for course takers to learn and not to study, although study will be part of learning.*
